

News

Nora Volkow, 2018 recipient of Georgetown University Medical Center's Cura Personalis Award (Wikimedia Commons/National Institutes of Health/Mary Nobel Ours)

by James Dearie

View Author Profile

Join the Conversation

November 16, 2018

Share on BlueskyShare on FacebookShare on TwitterEmail to a friendPrint

Welcome to NCR's college roundup, with the latest news in Catholic college and university life.

ST. LOUIS — St. Louis University is facing another round of cuts as it struggles with student enrollment and financial issues.

According to a Nov. 13 report by St. Louis Public Radio, the university's enrollment is 638 students short of where it was five years ago, even as financial aid the university is giving out is up by $50 million over its numbers then. SLUCare, the university's physician practice, has also seen a loss of revenue.

The university has responded with a hiring freeze, and will be looking to cut other costs as well. Some academic programs and positions, as well as an annual staff and faculty raise, could soon be cut.

One the bright side, the report says that the university had the most successful fundraising year in its history last year, raising nearly $100 million.

Nora Volkow, 2018 recipient of Georgetown University Medical Center's Cura Personalis Award (Wikimedia Commons/National Institutes of Health/Mary Nobel Ours)

WASHINGTON — Georgetown University Medical Center announced that on Nov. 13 it bestowed the 2018 Cura Personalis Award, its highest honor, on Nora Volkow, director of the National Institute on Drug Abuse.

"Every year at the Annual GUMC Convocation, the Cura Personalis Award is bestowed upon a health professional who has made outstanding contributions to human health guided by compassion and service," the university said.

After spending much of her career in various capacities with Department of Energy's Brookhaven National Laboratory, Volkow was appointed to her current position in 2003.

"Volkow's work has been instrumental in demonstrating that drug addiction is a disease of the human brain," the university said. "As a research psychiatrist and scientist, Volkow pioneered the use of brain imaging to investigate the toxic effects and addictive properties of abusable drugs. ... She has also made important contributions to the neurobiology of obesity, ADHD, and aging."

SOUTH BEND, IND. — The University of Notre Dame dedicated a new building for its school of architecture Nov. 9, the South Bend Tribune reported Nov. 12.

The Walsh Family Hall of Architecture, made possible by a gift from Matthew Walsh, a 1968 graduate of the university, and his wife Joyce, will serve as the home of the university's school of architecture, a role that had previously been filled by Bond Hall, built in 1917.

"Walsh Family Hall will provide updated facilities and technologies that Bond Hall, which was originally designed to serve as the University's library, does not offer," student newspaper The Observer reported in April. "The new building will boast larger studios to increase interaction between classes, improved display areas for student work, an expanded library, a digital studio with upgraded technology, a historic preservation workshop, a larger auditorium and its basement will serve as the home of one of the University's three geothermal plants."

Advertisement

WASHINGTON — The Catholic University of America is mourning the death of a student on its campus last week.

Daniel Midwinter, 19, a sophomore from New Providence, New Jersey, studying civil engineering, was found unresponsive in his dorm room Nov. 7. Officials say he died of natural causes, student newspaper The Tower reported Nov. 13.

Midwinter "was [the] happiest, most positive person I have ever met," one student who spoke to The Tower said. Just a week before his death, Midwinter's Joker costume had won the Filipino Organization of Catholic University Students' Halloween costume contest.

[James Dearie is an NCR Bertelsen intern. Contact him at jdearie@ncronline.org.]

This story appears in the Campus Notebook feature series. View the full series.