

by Tracy Abeln

View Author Profile
tabeln@ncronline.org

Join the Conversation

February 25, 2019

Share on BlueskyShare on FacebookShare on TwitterEmail to a friendPrint

Our team of copy editors reads and posts most of what you see on the websites for National Catholic Reporter and Global Sisters Report (the NCR project focusing on women religious). The Copy Desk Daily provides insight on recommended news and opinion articles that have crossed our desks on their way to you.

Cultural attitudes around gender, ethnicity, sexual orientation and religion are gradually changing, but the fact that the shift is most pronounced among Americans too young to vote also means that the country has yet to see the full impact of the changes in progress.

Read: US Congress, more diverse than ever, falls far short of country's diversity

Get the numbers up by getting back to service and getting out of the church building. The latest Field Hospital post has some parish examples to live up to.

Read: Road to true Vatican II parish is downward mobility

The Brazilian legal system is unlike the one in the United States; a person can move in and out of prison as appeals are filed and resolved.

Read: Convicted mastermind of Sr. Dorothy Stang's murder ordered back to prison

You may be very familiar with NCR's "Young Voices" column (published every Thursday), but if you are searching for something to inspire yourself – and perhaps the younger people in your family – take note of GSR's "Notes from the Field," a weekly blog from college graduates who are volunteering in ministries around the world with Catholic sisters.

Read: A lesson learned: God as a source of trust

Marianist Sr. Nicole Trahan is a young adult who has attended a lot of funerals in her life, starting at a young age. It took her a while to realize this is not the norm.

Read: Being present to those who mourn

Want to keep updated with the latest news from the National Catholic Reporter? Sign up here for news updates by email — including one that will send you Copy Desk Daily every Monday through Friday.

Advertisement