

Opinion

by Teresa Malcolm

View Author Profile

Join the Conversation

December 18, 2019

Share on BlueskyShare on FacebookShare on TwitterEmail to a friendPrint

Our team of copy editors reads and posts most of what you see on the websites for National Catholic Reporter, Global Sisters Report and EarthBeat. The Copy Desk Daily highlights recommended news and opinion articles that have crossed our desks on their way to you.

Meet Uzo Obinna, who wants to be a doctor. He stopped going to school when he was 10 and started selling oranges in Nigeria's streets to help support his family. "Every day when I'm carrying my oranges in the street, I see my friends coming back from school and I feel angry," he says. Correspondent Patrick Egwu tells Uzo's story and writes about how the D.C.-based Africa Faith and Justice Network advocates for child rights in Nigeria, training Catholic sisters and others to campaign to end child exploitation, as well as stop violence against women.

Some promises should not be forever: Sr. Joan Chittister explains the ways that political disavowal is a virtue that could save the character of the nation.

In her latest Notes from the Field blog, Honorine Uwimana talks to her fellow St. Joseph Workers about how they ended up in this yearlong volunteer program in the tradition of the Sisters of St. Joseph, and what you can learn through service to others.

Commentators have been blaming a Labour Party move to the left for its recent loss at the polls — and offering that as a warning to Democratic candidates across the Atlantic. But drawing facile US lessons from the UK election ignores our differences, Michael Sean Winters notes.

Sr. Kathy Roberg traveled to Arizona in July and saw, in the deserts of the border, an exodus of today in the journeys of refugees hoping for the promised land.

Breaking through oaths of secrecy at the 2013 conclave: Fr. Donald Cozzens reviews The Election of Pope Francis: An Inside Account of the Conclave That Changed History by Gerard O'Connell.

Advertisement

Want to keep updated with the latest news from the National Catholic Reporter? Sign up here for news updates by email — including one that will send you Copy Desk Daily every Monday through Friday.