Suggestions on eating from Michael Pollan

- "Eat food. Not too much. Mostly plants."
- "Don't eat anything incapable of rotting."
- "Don't eat anything your great-grandmother wouldn't recognize as food."
- "If it came from a plant, eat it; if it was made in a plant, don't."
- "You are what what you eat eats."

"Imagine if we could eat every meal knowing these few simple things: What it is we're eating. Where it came from. How it found its way to our table. And what it really cost. If that was the reality, then every meal would have the potential to be a perfect meal... Most people don't want to learn to garden or hunt. But we can change the way we make and get our food so that it becomes food again—something that feeds our bodies and our souls. Imagine it: Every meal would connect us to the joy of living and the wonder of nature. Every meal would be like saying grace."
