Blog
Ministry
Religious Life

The U.N. flag is seen during the 74th session of the United Nations General Assembly at the world body's headquarters Sept. 24, 2019, in New York City. (CNS/Reuters/Yana Paskova)

by Maxine Kollasch

Contributor

View Author Profile

Join the Conversation

June 24, 2022

Share on BlueskyShare on FacebookShare on TwitterEmail to a friendPrint

Audio file

Clip from "In Good Faith"

Sr. Durstyne Farnan serves as a representative to the United Nations for the Dominican Sisters Conference, an organization of Dominican sisters and associates from across the nation.

Farnan, known as Sister Dusty, talks with Sister Maxine about how she helps Dominican women "in bringing their voice to the U.N. on behalf of civil society." As Sister Dusty tells Sister Maxine: "We are trying to represent some of the issues that Dominicans worldwide are really concerned about, such as climate, such as nuclear weapons, such as homelessness, the extraction from Indigenous areas, particularly in the Amazon, mining extractions."

Click here to listen to the full "In Good Faith" podcast where this clip is from.

GSR shares clips from our friends at A Nun's Life Ministry. Check out full episodes of all their podcasts (Ask Sister, In Good Faith, Random Nun Clips and more, like the archived Motherhouse Road Trips) on their website, ANunsLife.org.

Advertisement