A listener says she's drawn to religious life, but worries it's not for her because the sisters "always seem so much further along on their faith journey than me."

One of the hosts noted that all 107 members of her congregation are making that journey in their own way. "We are delighted to have people join us in this walk," she said. "It does not really matter where you are in this journey. … Walk along with us and ask questions."
